APPLICANT: Breidenbach et al

SERIAL NO.: 09/842,371

FILED: April 25, 2001

FOR: Dual cosmetic container

Hon. Commissioner for Patents
P.O. Box 1450
Alexandria, Virginia 22313-1450

RULE 132 AFFIDAVIT

State of New York)
County of Suffolk)

Diane Breidenbach being duly sworn deposes and says that:

1. She is CEO of Fragrance Systems Inc., the assignee of the above identified application.
2. Since the product which is the subject matter of the above application was introduced by Fragrance Systems, Inc. in 2001, it has achieved widespread customer recognition in the marketplace because of its unique features. Fragrance Systems does not advertise and promote the container of the present application.
3. Many well known cosmetic companies have become customers of Fragrance Systems and have included the dual cosmetic container having a roller ball and a doe foot applicator in their product lines. These cosmetic companies include such major companies as Estee Lauder for Tommy Hilfiger, Michael Kors, Donna Karan, Coty for Vera Wang, Mary Kay, Avon, Proctor & Gamble for Valentino, Elizabeth Arden, Clinique, Britney Spears line, The Body Shop, Victoria's Secret and Hard Candy. These companies have chosen to sell the product of the present invention because of its unique features.

4. Because of the uniqueness of the dual container of the present invention, Fragrance System's customers have promoted the product of the present application to the public. For examples, the dual cosmetic container having a roller ball and a doe foot applicator of the present application have been featured by Victoria's Secret Christmas 2002 Catalog and Victoria's Secret Christmas 2003 Catalog. Copies of relevant portions of Victoria's Secrets Christmas 2002 and Christmas 2003 Catalogs are attached hereto as Exhibits 1 and 2.

5. At the 2004 Academy Awards present by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Victoria's Secret, a customer of Fragrance System for the product of the application, used the dual cosmetic container of the above identified application as a gift for the attendees to the awards ceremony. Attached hereto as Exhibit 3 is a copy of article from the March 21st, 2004 issue of Newsday showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Oscar Nominee Gift Pack for the 2004 Academy Awards ceremony.

6. Estee Lauder has advertised Applicant's product. Attached hereto as Exhibit 4 is a copy of an Estee Lauder advertisement offering Applicant's dual cosmetic container.

7. Attached hereto as Exhibit 5 is a copy of Bloomingdale's promotion for dual cosmetic container of the present application as part of a Mother's Day gift package.

8. Attached hereto as Exhibit 6 is a page from the Mary Kay website showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Mary Kay “Velocity” product line.

9. Sephora’s Britney Spears product line includes the dispenser of the present invention. Attached hereto as exhibit 7 is a copy of the www.sephora.com website showing the applicant’s product.

10. Seventeen Magazine ran an article entitled “Wallet Size Lip Gloss, Clump Free Mascara and More I Gotta-Have-Em Tidbits by Laura Kinney.” Item three in the article is directed to Applicant’s product where the author states “Talk about a bang for your buck, The Body Shop’s Tint & Shine Packs Three Functions in One Handy Wand.” See Exhibit 8.

11. The dual cosmetic container of the present application has been shown a number of times in publications in the form of advertisements for the product sold by Hard Cady. Attached hereto are Exhibits 9 and 12 which show the Applicant’s product as marked by its customer Hard Candy under the designation Stain & Shine.

12. Lucky magazine ran an article entitled “Beauty Spy”. The second item mentioned in the article is directed to Applicant’s product where the author classified it as a “miracle worker.”, and highlighted its ability to store multiple cosmetic products. See Exhibit 10.

13. Allure Magazine’s editors ran an article entitled “Editors’ Favorites”, and the applicant’s product was featured. The authorized characterized the applicant’s product as “quiet and sweet” and cited its ability to store multiple cosmetic products. See Exhibit 11.

14. Attached hereto are exhibits 13-14 is a copy of the www.sephora.com website showing the applicant’s product as a part of the Michael Kors product line.

15. Attached hereto as Exhibit 15 is a page from the Sephora website showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Clinique product line.

16. Attached hereto as Exhibit 16 is a page from the Sephora website showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Vera Wang product line.

17. Attached hereto as Exhibit 17 is a page from the Sephora website showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Hillary Duff product line.

18. Attached hereto as Exhibit 18-19 are pages from the Mary Kay website showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Mary Kay Simply Chic Fragrance/Lip Gloss product line.

19. Attached hereto as Exhibit 20-23 are pages from the Macy's catalogue showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Clinique product line.

20. Attached hereto as Exhibit 24 is a page from the Sephora catalogue showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Vera Wang Princess product line.

21. Since the product was introduced in 2001, Applicant has been a commercial success in the cosmetic industry. Fragrance Systems has sold over 4,000,000 dual ended roller ball/doe foot rod applicator packages of the present invention from it's introduction until 2006.

22. Since 2006, Applicant has had increasing commercial success in the cosmetic industry. Fragrance Systems sold 466,200 dual ended roller ball/doe foot rod applicator packages of the present invention in 2006. In 2007, Fragrance Systems sold 717,000 packages of the present invention. In 2008, Fragrance Systems sold over 2,128,600 dual packages of the present invention. As of February 2009, Fragrance Systems has sold 363,000 dual ended roller ball/doe foot rod applicator packages.

THE GOODY BAGS

When they say it's great just to be nominated, they're not kidding. Oscar nominees, along with presenters and other VIPs, are showered with thousands of dollars in gifts. Contenders in the actress and supporting actress categories walk away with the most swag (diamonds, perfume, designer clothes, more diamonds) but there's plenty to go around. Presenters' goodies this year are supposedly worth more than $30,000 — all wrapped up in an elegant suede duffel designed by Maria Lyons. (Feeling left out? Mere mortals can buy the bag, in different colors, next week for $395 on marialyons.com.) Here's a look at just some of the loot — like any of these Hollywood types really need this stuff.

Weekend bag: A travel bag by Manolo Blahnik filled with suede slides, Estee Lauder products, Baccarat earrings, an Hermes throw and a bottle of Veuve Clicquot champagne. $10,000

Hotel suite: a two-night stay at The Carlyle in Manhattan $2000

Vodka: Wyborowa's new vodka will be presented in a limited edition gift box and bottle designed by Frank Gehry. $2000

Underwear: Angels bra and pantie by Victoria's Secret with a diamond Mouawad pendant, a lip gloss with a diamond applicator and Dream Angels perfume $12,000

Crystal perfume bottle: Baccarat bottle engraved with the nominee's name and filled with Enjoy by Jean Patou. $500

1. fringe benefits

Painting your lower lashes can be risky business. Hello, clumps! To the rescue: L'Oréal's So-Lo Lower Lash Mascara. The mini wand grabs and defines every single tiny lash. Mascara, $7.15; drugstores.

2. weird science

If chem class rocks your inner periodic table (Fe, O, Cu . . . later), you'll love Chemistryset's bevy of flasks, test tubes and applicator jars filled with skin-softening tub treats. Bath salts, $16; Chemistryset.net.

3. mo' money

Talk about bang for your buck: The Body Shop's Tint & Shine packs three functions in one handy wand. Tip: Stain your lips and cheeks with long-lasting Lip Tint, then follow with Lip Gloss for plumping shine. Lip and cheek color, $15; Thebodyshop.com.

4. passion for fashion

Afraid the suede skirt you've been jonesing for will kill your cash stash? Go for Tarte's fall makeup line instead. Packed in purple suede, the compacts are pret-a-porter for the purse! Eyeshadow, $16; Beauty.com.

5. line me up

If you're a gal who likes her options, you'll love Prescriptives Colorclick Eye Stick. You choose two silky shadows, click 'em together and voilà—sexy eyes. Eye pencil, $14 for each color; department stores.

6. lipstick or plastic?

Gloss that fits in your wallet, say what? Trish McEvoy's Maxed Out packs 10 glosses and a brush in a compact the size of a credit card. Lip gloss set, $18; 800-431-4306.

7. win it!

If you love what Fudge's hair line does for your tresses, just think what its funky new makeup line, F2, will do for your face! Five readers and five seventeen.com visitors can each score one Illuminate Shimmer Powder (no purchase necessary; for details, see last pages). Powder, $9.95; Fudge.com

COSMO LOOK
Q & A

For soft locks like Mandy Moore's, condition with care.

DRIED-OUT MANE MYSTERY

Q: Could my deep conditioner be drying out my hair? I use it three times a week, and my hair feels like straw.

A: Your hair probably isn't suffering from a lack of moisture but rather a buildup of the proteins that are found in many deep conditioners. Proteins help make hair stronger, but they can give it a rough texture if they are overused," says Carol Week, a hairstylist in Chicago. You should pay attention to which type of deep conditioner you've been applying. Strengthening formulas are packed with the most protein and should be used once a week at most. We like Alterra Herp Seed Deep Conditioner, $23.75. Conditioners for color-treated hair can't be used twice a week. Try V05 Hot Oil Treatment, $4, to rehab your dry strands, use a clarifying shampoo to remove those excess proteins from your locks. Try Neutrogena Anti-Residue Shampoo, $6.

Makeup That Stays Put

Q: How can I make my makeup last throughout the entire day?

A: It's frustrating to work hard perfecting your makeup in the a.m., only to have it fade away by lunchtime. One reason for the disappearing act could be that you're constantly touching your face, which can rub off your makeup, says celebrity makeup artist Morgen Schick. To up the long-wearing factor of your foundation, set it in place by dusting a light layer of powder over it. Try Morgen Schick's Whisper Set Powder, $20. Also, apply a lip and cheek stain under your lipstick and blush so these places will have color all day. We like Hard Candy Stain and Shine, $15 (shown above). To make your shadow effect stay put, layer a powder formula over a cream version in the same color.

Ouch-Free Wax Hints

Q: I love the results of waxing, but I absolutely can't stand the pain. Is there anything I can do to make it hurt less?

A: There are a few things you can do to soften the sting. First, never schedule an appointment on the three days before or after your period—your skin is most tender during this time. Popping an anti-inflammatory painkiller, like Advil, about two hours before your appointment can also help minimize pain and will reduce post-waxing redness. Another way to kick up the comfort factor a notch is to try one of the new numbing creams. These temporarily desensitize the nerve endings in the area, says Cindy Barshop, owner of the Completely Bare spas in New York. Apply the cream to the area at least 30 minutes before waxing begins. A great one to try is L.M.X 4 Topical Anesthetic Cream, $25.

Couple conundrum

No matter how many times a day my guy shaves, he always seems to have stubble. What is he doing wrong?

The first thing he should do is start using a hair-minimizing face cream, which will slow his stubble growth. Give him Biore Beyond Smooth Moisturizer, $7. Then, to get the closest shave possible, he should soften his skin with a pre shave oil, says Eric Malka, president and CEO of The Art of Shaving. A great oil: Zirn Prepare Botanical Shave Oil, $15. Your guy should also shave twice—once in the direction of hair growth and then again in the opposite direction. And make sure he has a triple- or quadruple-bladed razor, which shaves off more hair. Try Schick Quattro, $9.

NEW! Limited-Edition Simply Chic Fragrance/Lip Gloss

It's fun, fashionable and ready for anything! Let girls have fun in Starlet Kiss with four interchangeable mini Mary Kay® Eau de Toilettes: Exotic Passionfruit™, Simply Cotton™ and Warm Amber™. Twist the metal cylinder and roll on the scent. Or twist the lip gloss end to portable and perfect for giving!

Instructions:

Prior to first using the Simply Chic Fragrance/Lip Gloss Duo, remove the lip gloss barrel by pulling it out. Untwist the cap, then twist the cap to loosen it. You can then insert the fragrance bottle back into the barrel and twist the cap to lock it. (The cap will remain inside the barrel.) Also, please note that the mini fragrance bottle will be exposed. You may need to first remove the tray from the box to remove the cap.
